Mazenod goes back in time

MAZENOD College students have been expanding their knowledge of ancient cultures as part of Ancient World Week.

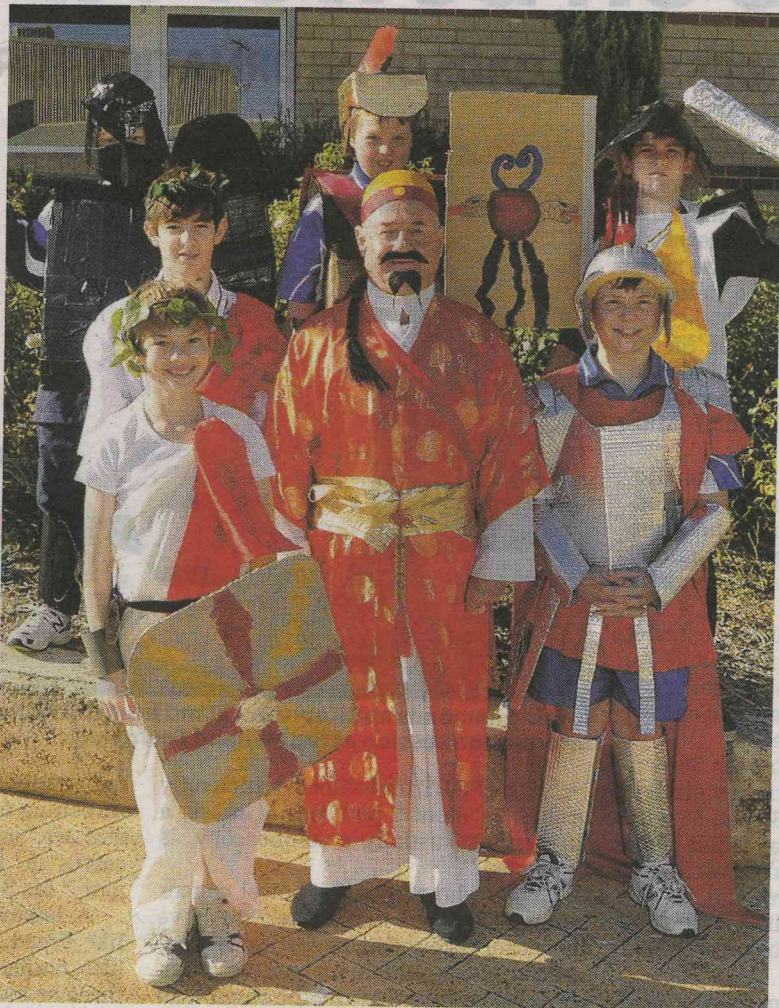

Last year, it was all things ancient Greece, but this year students focused on ancient China and Rome.

The week involved students researching what life would be like in an ancient army, creating ancient armour and participating in a games day that involved an opening ceremony and chariot races.

To celebrate at the end of the week there was also an ancient Roman style feast.

Some cheeky students suggested there should have been an ancient Roman vomitorium, where Romans would tickle the back of their throats with feathers so they could vomit and continue feasting.

During the week, students also went on an excursion to the Art Gallery and the Museum to witness the various ways history can be recorded.
